The Article Confusion

The confusion with articles a/an/the can be clarified in the mind of the child by making them understand their usage in a step-by-step manner.

1. At this age, let them work with common nouns first.
2. Start with 'an' and then move on to 'a' and then 'the'.
3. Use the following grid to simplify the thought process for the child.

Read this story to your child.

In the magic kingdom of alphabets, all the letters were excited. A special council of alphabets was going to have its first meeting. They had a very important task. They were going to decide the job of the three special words, 'a', 'an' and 'the'. The three special words called articles were waiting anxiously. The letter Z said, "People on earth have so many good things to say, we must make it easy for them to write and speak." And all the alphabets nodded their head in agreement. The letter Z asked next, "Which article would like to start their job first." All the three articles 'a', 'an' and 'the' raised their hands. The letter Z said, "Hmm, how will 'a', 'an' and 'the' have different jobs?" The clever letter B had an idea. B said, "When the people of earth know which object they are talking about, they will use the article 'the'. And when they are talking about an object or things in general, but not a specific one, they can use 'a/ an'." Z was pleased with this solution.

Read this story to your child.

As the meeting of the council of alphabets continued, Z noticed that the article 'an' was looking unhappy. Z asked 'an', "Why are you looking so glum?" It said, "I also want my special job." That is when letter E stood up and said, "Letter Z, the article 'an' could be paired with me and all my friends, a, i, o and u, the other vowels." The letter Z looked at all the other letters and they all nodded in agreement. All the letters were pleased. Now they all had articles to accompany them when they made words.
